

Security officials crack down on cell phone use – on, off base

Using a cell phone while driving could cost up to $1,180 in fines

Heather King Navarrete

If you own a cell phone, watch where you use it, warn security officials. It could cost more than you bargained for.

Base security and local authorities are cracking down on motorists who use their cell phones while driving, said SM2 Jeffrey Wright, base security crime prevention. The cost? It can run as high as $1,180.

The fine for using a cell phone while driving in town is typically $100, but it can reach as high as $1,180 if other factors are involved, such as causing an accident or hitting a pedestrian due to cell phone use, said Paco Lopez Ibanez, assistant security officer for services.

On base, cell phone use can cost you three points - or more - against your driving record, said Wright.

The Spanish law, banning cellular phone use while operating a motor vehicle, went into effect eight years ago, but is more strongly enforced now because statistics are showing an increase of traffic accidents where cellular phones were a factor.

"We've had an invasion of cell phones recently," said Lopez, "and now it's becoming a problem."

"Cell phones distract your attention from driving," he said, "and anything that distracts your attention from driving is prohibited by Spanish law."

Security suggests three things to avoid a hefty fine: pull over to the side of the road when making a call; purchase a 'hands-free' device (ranging in cost from $5 to $10) that allows the driver to keep both hands on the steering wheel while talking on the phone; or, turn off the phone altogether, while in the car.

Cell phone owner, HM3 Dwayne Rose, said these suggestions are not unreasonable.

Local Sailor involved in motorcycle accident

A motorcycle accident in El Puerto de Santa Maria left a local Sailor hospitalized, Aug. 17. The accident occurred at the bend on the Autovia, the main road that leads from the Puerto gate to the N-IV.

The Sailor was released from Naval Hospital, Rota last week after being treated for injuries sustained to his left hand and knee.

An investigation is still pending, but alcohol use has been ruled out as a factor causing the accident.

Base shuttle bus to begin full-week service

JO3 Ricky Allen
Rota Coastline

The base shuttle bus will take over MWR's Rec Rabbit weekend operations starting Sept. 8, giving the community full service throughout the week.

"We're consolidating the use of the vehicles since the shuttle bus already operates Monday through Friday," said Don P. Eubank, transportation officer, public works.

One advantage to this change, according to Eubank, is the longer hours the shuttle bus service will offer to customers.

Unlike the Rec Rabbit, which ended weekend hours at 6 p.m. Sunday evening, the shuttle bus will run Sunday through Thursday, from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m., and 6 a.m. to midnight, Friday and Saturday.

Eubank said the shuttle bus

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Russ: Doing something right

All I have to say is Russ Gambrel MUST be doing something right to evoke all these letters. I can't believe I'm actually writing, somewhat in defense of him. Last year I referred to him the same as he referred to himself in a recent column.

He enraged me! He had the nerve to voice a very negative opinion about a young quarterback from my football team. The quarterback is Ryan Leaf, and truthfully I think he's going to be good! But then I am an eternal optimist.

One would have to be, I suppose, to root for the San Diego Chargers for over 30 years. So Russ Gambrel upset me, and I let everyone know it. I boycotted his column (I'm sure he felt that and cared!) But then something in his column caught my eye, and much to my chagrin, I actually agreed with him.

I started reading his column, recognizing he offers quite a refreshing view and his opinion is peppered with humor and is enjoyable.

Agree or disagree, he is entertaining!! So I agree with a recent letter to the editor, "if you don't like it, don't read it". I, for one, have decided to read it!! — PattiHusted

Russ: Soon to be 'discovered'

I have just read the 24 August edition of Coastline...and was motivated to cast my "opinion" for Russ Gambrel. Mr. Gambrel has not only taken on the "sacred cow"...NASCAR, but he has provided a refreshing insight into sports reportage.

I hope Mr. Gambrel continues to dispell certain sports myths....maybe next he will do an in-depth report on the only sport where one can drink a pitcher of beer, skoff down a pepperoni pizza, and have a cigarette dangling from ones' lips...as one searches for the elusive 300 game.

While I am certain that minds will continue to be stimulated by his wit, insight, and refreshing editorial perspective....Watch out Rota, this is an individual who will soon be discovered...and offered a position in a big time publication....Rota's loss will be America's gain.

Keep it coming Russ, you are a breath of fresh air! — Mike Cohn, G.M.C. Associates (Visiting Rota on business)

Prepare for possible resumption of gate protests, know what to do

As the summer vacation comes to a close, renewed protests by Spanish base employees over the labor and pay issue are a possibility. While no one knows for sure whether protests will actually resume, there are a few things a person needs to know during a demonstration, gate blockage or closure, said Lt. Dave Kush, NAVSTA Security Officer.

"The number one thing a person can do is tune the radio to HOT 102.5 FM in order to find out which gates are blocked or open and what actions to take," said Kush. During demonstrations, the journalists at the radio station are standing by to provide the most up-to-date information on the demonstrations. There are local radio shows from 6 to 9 a.m., 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 3 to 6 p.m. However, "during emergent situations, updates will also be given any time of the day on the radio," said JOCs Neil Guillebeau, officer-in-charge, Naval Media Center, Det. Rota.

Appropriate behavior at the gates during demonstrations is also paramount, according to Kush. "People should be cordial and as friendly as possible. They shouldn't get involved in any arguments or disputes with any of the demonstrators." Keep a low profile, avoid large crowds, and don't shove your way through, Kush said. He noted this not only applies to the current demonstrations, but also to any demonstration by any party.

If you are running late for work because the gates are blocked, the best thing to do is turn around, get to the nearest telephone, and call your supervisor. Also, tune into the base radio station to find out which gates are open.

In the case of a medical emergency, and you absolutely need to get into the base during a gate blockage or closure, "wave a white flag or cloth, and you'll be let through," said Kush. "But," he said, "people can't abuse this because it may cause problems for those who have true emergencies."

If you hear the gates are blocked and not sure what the David Glasgow Farragut schools plans are, the best thing to do is listen to HOT 102.5 FM to find out about any bus delays or school class adjustments.

If gate blockage is anticipated for some time, Housing will continue to answer emergency service calls from residents, which can be provided for those on and off base. Some MWR services will be curtailed. The best thing to do is listen to the radio for the most up-to-date information.

Firefighters complete 2-day training

JO3 Ricky Allen
Rota Coastline

The firefighters can assure the community that they are now fully qualified to assist in any situation. Naval Station's Fire department and security department completed a two-day training course qualifying the team in confined space and high angle rescue operations.

"These are new firefighters, and they have never had confined space training. We have a requirement for them to be certified in confined space. The training team we have here is fulfilling the requirement for us," said Danny Parks, asst. fire chief.

Michael Drummed and Gene Tladdin, Heavy and Tactical Rescue Specialists from the North Carolina Office of the Fire Marshall Instructor, were the two coordinators of the training.

"During the past two days we have trained on high angle rescue techniques, and the rest of the time we practiced confined space rescue. We try to take them through in a stepwise fashion. We show them the basic concepts they can utilize and put together in different situations," Drummond said.

According to Firefighter AB1 Manuel Espinal, being certified means they can now assist other departments with greater knowledge.

One of the many drills the department performed was a drill in which the firefighters had to rescue a person from a water tower using the skills they learned from the training sessions. Other drills consisted of working in areas that are small and limited in space. MA1 Albert Key of Security Force Protection said the training was very useful and time well spent.

"There were a lot of techniques I didn't know, different ways to attacking the problem. With the consensus of another individual, you see different ways to arriving to a consensus, breaking language barriers and experience barriers," he said.

Politician shot dead in Basque region

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain — A Spanish politician has died after being shot in the Basque region in an attack which local media immediately blamed on the separatist group ETA.

Manuel Indiano Azaustre, 29, a town councilor representing the country's Popular Party, was shot 10 times in the chest and abdomen early on Aug. 29 inside his sweet shop in the town of Zumarraga, 400 kilometers (250 miles) north of Madrid, a spokesman for the region's Ertzaintza police force said.

Azaustre, who police said was shot by two masked men, died an hour later in the town's hospital.

The killing was the 12th blamed on the organization since it ended a 14-month truce last December.

Health Department keeps El Buzo beach closed for swimming

The Andalucia government has ordered the city council of El Puerto to keep El Buzo beach at Vistahermosa closed as a precautionary measure. During the past week, many tests have been made of the water there. Results indicate the beach is safe for swimming, but the Andalucia government believes there is no guarantee that the problem at the sewage plant in Vistahermosa that contaminated the beach has been fixed.

Elton John will not perform in San Fernando

The only concert that Elton John will perform this year in Spain will be held in Marbella. That concert is set for Sept. 16. San Fernando was scheduled to host an Elton John concert, but had problems with the promoter. The promoter then opted to hold the concert in Marbella.

Marines suspend flights for 3 aircraft models

Flight operations for three models of Marine Corps aircraft were recently suspended temporarily by the Naval Aviation Systems Command after officials discovered unrelated problems with each type of aircraft.

The suspension orders were issued late Friday, Aug. 25, for the CH-53E Super Stallion transport helicopter, AH-1W Cobra attack helicopter and the MV-22 Osprey tiltrotor aircraft. A portion of the Corps' AV-8B Harrier jet fleet remains grounded, following a July 11 order suspending flights due to concerns about engine bearing problems.

Most significant is the grounding of 165 of the Corps' heavy-lift CH-53E helicopters, eight of which are currently deployed. The decision to suspend operations is based on the preliminary findings of the crash of a Navy MH-53E mine-sweeping helicopter off the coast of Corpus Christi, Texas, Aug. 10.

DoD to offer WIC overseas

DoD plans to provide supplemental foods and nutrition education to overseas military and family members by summer 2001.

Called Women, Infants and Children Overseas (WIC), the program will be administered by TRICARE. Bernard D. Rostker made the announcement before some 800 family support specialists attending the DoD Family Readiness Conference in Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 22 to 24.

Rostker announced focus groups will convene at several stateside locations soon to identify issues likely facing WIC providers and beneficiaries overseas. DoD plans to run a pilot test at five overseas locations selected by each of the services by January 2001 — two in Europe, two in the western Pacific and one in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, he said.

Navy's official web site to get new look

The U.S. Navy's official web site, <http://www.navy.mil>, will put on a new face Sept. 1. The new design reflects the 225-year history of the Navy.

The Navy's web site is the oldest service web site, having debuted online in November 1993. It garners over 3.5 million accesses each month and contains nearly 13,000 files, including archives of Navy News back to when the site first appeared online.

Managed by the Navy's Office of Information in the Pentagon, the site is updated frequently, sometimes as often as three to four times per day. The "Around the Fleet" section displays current images from around the fleet as well as high-resolution images for use by base newspaper editors.

Visitors are encouraged to begin at the "Site Index" page, which provides a comprehensive guide to the information on the site as well as links to other important Navy web sites.

Navy advancement manual changed

A change has been made to the enlisted advancement system, which allows commanding officers to waive up to one year of the required time-in-rate for Sailors in paygrades E-5 and E-6, who received a promotion recommendation of "early promote" on their most recent periodic evaluation in that paygrade.

For further details, see NAVADMIN 221/00 at <http://www.bupers.navy.mil/navadmin>.

Services to begin collecting baseline medical info on recruits

Defense medical officials are working on a plan to collect baseline health data from all recruits during their basic training.

The Recruit Assessment Program would collect "comprehensive, extensive medical history and health data" and will compile the information into a computer database, said Navy Capt. Kenneth C. Hyams, director of epidemiology at the Naval Medical Research Center in Silver Spring, Md.

Doctors would be able to access patients' data throughout the members' military career, Hyams said. Data also would be available to Department of Veterans Affairs doctors when individuals enter the VA system.

The RAP questionnaire is computerized and more extensive than any in current use. He said there are no plans to pose the same questions to those already serving.

Navy commissions USS Oscar Austin

The Navy commissioned USS Oscar Austin (DDG 79), the first Flight IIA Arleigh Burke-class AEGIS destroyer, Aug. 19, in Norfolk, Vir.

As the first ship of its kind, Oscar Austin is equipped with the most advanced combat systems in the world. In addition to more missiles, the ship boasts an upgraded AEGIS weapons system that integrates the SPY-1D radar system and advanced computers that manage the missile bays and the Vertical Launch System. The ship will also carry two SH-60B helicopters, allowing it to perform both anti-surface and anti-submarine warfare with greater flexibility. More information about USS Oscar Austin can be found at <http://www.spear.navy.mil/ships/ddg79>.

Interim change made to Navy enlisted advancement system

A change to the Navy-wide advancement examination adds the Marine Corps good conduct medal to the list of awards for which final multiple points may be awarded. The change is effective for the September 2000 exam cycle. See NAVADMIN 224/00 on the BUPERS web page at <http://www.bupers.navy.mil/navadmin>.

Four Rota students take first step towards pilot licence

Kathy Henry
Naples, Italy

The mission commander stood before the room and provided them with the briefing information. They were to plan a seven-leg flight, and filling out their flight logs accurately could mean the difference between life and death during the flight. Armed with aviation maps, an odd-looking instrument called an E6B flight computer and two weeks of training, they quietly began to work.

Nearly four hours later, thirteen students from all over Europe had finished the first step necessary toward becoming aviators, completing Aviation Ground School.

Sponsored by the U.S. Navy Sea Cadet Corps, the Navy League of the United States (NLUS) and the Flying Midshipmen, the class held at Capodichino, Italy Aug. 6-16, provided the teens with the opportunity to learn the basics of what piloting a plane is all about.

If they demonstrate sufficient knowledge, they earn an Aviation Ground School certificate, qualifying them to take the Federal Aviation Administration's Private Pilot written examination. Passing this test is a key step toward obtaining a student pilot license.

"One of the purposes of the Navy League and the Sea Cadet Corps is to promote the reputation of the Navy and all of its expertise," said Retired (Res.) Brig. Gen. Robert T. S. Colby, the NAETC's National Director of Aviation Operations and Training.

"We use retired aviators to educate the youngsters and want to have the classes in as many places as possible," he said.

The class at Capodichino was made up of four students from Naples, two from Gaeta, four from Rota, two from London and one from a diplomatic family in France.

Classes were held in the Navy College classroom in Admin II, and students ate all of their meals in the base's dining facility. Billeting on base wasn't available, so they "lived" at the Naples American High School. Because there was so much to learn in a relatively short amount of time, their days usually began at 5:30 a.m. and ended around 10 p.m., and for that reason even the local students stayed at the school.

"I've dreamt of being a pilot for as long as I can remember, and this is my first opportunity to really learn about aviation," said Chris Heatherdale, 15, a student from Rota. "I'm not sure if I want to join the military or fly commercial airplanes, it doesn't really matter to me just as long as I'm up there," Heatherdale said, looking up at the sky.

New DFAS retiree website helps with money matters

Tony Lee
Retiree

Military retirees living in the local area will soon be able to access their personal data held by the Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS), the agency controlling retiree financial accounts.

The Employee/Member Self Service (E/MSS) allows retirees to access selected retiree pay information, and the ability to make selected changes directly to their DFAS pay record via the Internet. Faster and more reliable, this new service enables even those living in Spain to make their own changes to their pay account faster than previously possible.

It should be noted that only Internet web browsers such as Netscape Navigator version 3.0 or higher, Netscape Communicator, or Internet Explorer version 4.0 or higher with a cipher strength of 128-bit should be used.

If problems are encountered, just remember that IE5 is available free from the Microsoft website and with this browser, 128-bit cipher is possible. Also, access via the Internet is possible through the Retiree Affairs Office at the Navy Family Service Center. If you attempt accessing the E/MSS website without 128-bit cipher enabled, once the site is entered, a screen display is presented asking if the member wishes to continue, with a YES or NO box. Without the higher level of security, you will only see the icon image for NO and a blank outline for where the icon image for YES should be. This higher security level is necessary to protect each member's personal records and information.

What can be accomplished once an authorized individual accesses their account? They will be able to immediately make changes in the status of their federal tax withholding and any exemptions, start and/or stop their direct deposit allotment(s), change their correspondence address (only available through the Internet option), and update their electronic funds transfer address for their net pay. DFAS also plans to make more options available in the future.

When accessing the website for the first time, members will need their DFAS E/MSS letter and their social security number. The DFAS E/MSS website is <http://emss.dfas.mil>.

Another owner, HM3 Kevin Dacus, said these suggestions are good ideas, but they are not always practical.

"If someone calls me, I can't always pull over because there aren't a lot of places in Rota where you can do that," he said. "I also don't think it's enforced very much here, because you still see people driving around and using them."

Lopez said, "[Spanish authorities] don't stop everybody, everyday, on every corner, but from time to time they set up traffic control stops and you don't want to get caught."

Navy College Learning Center

NCLC offers free academic skills instruction to meet the varied work schedules, background, and goals of ship and shore-based military personnel. We also welcome students who are retired military, reservists, civilians or adult family members of any of these groups.

Our Center has eight computer workstations, where students can complete lessons in: Fundamental Math; Language Arts; and Reading to include Algebra; Geometry; Trigonometry; Calculus; Science Fundamentals; Chemistry; Physics; History; Economics; Geography; Political Science; Behavioral Science; Test Preparation Programs for CLEP, SAT, ACT, ASVAB, GED; Work Skills Courses; Life & Job Skills; and Parenting Skills.

Our program is self-paced. Students take an assessment test on the computer and begin their lessons at a level appropriate for their skills. Students must master lower-level lessons before moving on through the courses, and they may review lessons at any time.

A facilitator is always available for one-to-one assistance as needed. Students are able to complete their academic skill goals at the pace appropriate to their individual learning style and can choose their own study schedule. ## The tiny artist village across the Strait of Gibraltar story and photos by C.A. Linder

I awakened with a start. A guttural voice, incredibly loud, blared through a loudspeaker, echoing off of the narrow walls outside of our room. It took me a minute to realize where I was... the voice on the loudspeaker wasn't speaking English, or even Spanish... it was Arabic, and it was prayer time in Morocco.

Rota is amazingly close to the African continent, and it is extremely easy to get there. A quick drive down the coast to Algeciras, and a fast ferry ride across the Strait of Gibraltar lands you in a new country, and in a new continent. For those whose only knowledge of Morocco is a day-trip to Tangiers (which possibly left you lacking...) I urge you to explore.

Take Asilah, for instance. This tiny town of artisans, although only a 45 minute taxi ride from Tangiers (don't pay more than 2000 ptas for a car of 4) is a world away.

The whitewashed medina is clean and bright. The ocean pounds upon the castle ramparts that jut out into the Atlantic.

There are shops where you can purchase rugs, mirrors, jewelry, and other knickknacks. Asilah is well known in Morocco as a haven for artists, and you can see their work throughout the medina in the form of colorful mosaics painted on the walls. A short drive, or donkey ride, south down the coast takes you to Paradise Beach. The open Atlantic looms out in front of you, impossibly large, beneath towering cliffs. Farther down, the white sandy beach stretches for a kilometer or more. Is this Africa?

When exploring on your own, beware of the usual culprits. Keep your valuables safely guarded and avoid the villagebeggars posing as "official guides." You may have to pay off the extremely persistent ones to be left alone (a common problem everywhere in Morocco).

Morocco is an adventure; be sure to visit at least once during your tour.

You won't regret it.

New Capella to open

Lt. Cmdr. Beth Brumfield
Jewish Lay Leader

Renovating and building takes work. First there's the planning, then the demolition, followed by the construction, the electrician, the painter and finally the decorator. A lot of time and effort are required to make a space usable. But a space created for the worship of the Almighty — that calls for a little something more than just pronouncing a space ready.

That something more will be a blessing and dedication ceremony to set this new space apart as a place for worship, study and meditation. The new interfaith chapel will serve the Rota Jewish Community and others who need an intimate space for worship.

Prior to its renovation, this room was more a clutter catcher than a serviceable space. Old books, dusty shelves, mismatched furniture and a carpeted riser covering a massive unused baptismal font made the original room barely useable. But the ugly ducking has become a swan and is now a light, beautiful and calming space in which to worship God.

Chaplain Jonathan Panitz, Sixth Fleet Rabbi will be on hand to assist Lt. Cmdr. Elizabeth Brumfield, Jewish Lay Leader and Chaplain Steve Beyer in the dedication ceremony. The community is invited to attend the dedication, Sept. 8, at 7 p.m. A reception will follow on the chapel lawn and Sabbath Services will be held at approximately 8 p.m.

It is the best of times and the worst of times. For parents it's the best of times, because it's the first week of school! Now our vacation begins. And for children? Nine months of hard labor? Confined to the classroom? The kids may say that it's the worst of times, but most can't wait to go back. For parents and children alike school is a win-win situation.

We joke about school being a prison for children. But the French writer and playwright, Victor Hugo, gave a more sober twist to this image. He said, "He who opens a school door, closes a prison." In other words, we might joke about children serving time in school, but education is the key to a free society. If we teach our children well when they are young, we probably won't have to discipline them harshly when they are grown. Scripture says simply, "Start a child on the right road, and even in old age he will not leave it." (Prov 22:6)

Welcome back to school! To early morning alarms and late-night term papers. To lost lunch tickets and last-minute reminders about the class play. To 8 hours of calm at home, and 8 hours of learning at school. In spite of all that we say, school really is a win-win situation; for parents and for kids.

GOOD WORD FOR THE WEEK

A wise man is mightier than a strong man, and a man of knowledge than he who has strength. Proverbs 24:5 (RSV)

This week I'd like to get into the details of what to look for in a printer and interesting new printer technology.

I would consider price, resolution, supplies expense, ease of use and copying speed as the most important criteria in selecting a printer. There is an entire series of printers that are photographic quality that range in price from $300 to $500 dollars.

Why so expensive? These are photographic printers that make archival quality photographs. The Epson 870 and 1270 (the difference between them is that the 1270 will print up to 11" x 14" photos) are two printers that use six ink colors and offer 1440 dpi resolution. When used with the right inks and media Epson claims that the paper will support the image for 20 to 30 years. Right now if you use regular ink and standard paper your image should last between two to three years. You can increase that life span to ten years if you use Epson's new Premium Glossy Photo paper.

There are plenty of excellent printers available at much cheaper prices. Stick with one that will print at least 1440 x 720 dpi. In fact, the NEX carries the Epson Stylus 740 that prints 1440 x 720 dpi. It only costs $97.99.

Printer supplies are expensive because each manufacturer has created "special" inkjet heads and papers that are designed just for your printer. Try to select a major printer manufacturer so that you won't have to hunt down basic necessities such as color cartridges.

Next, consider buying a printer that is easy to use. Try to get one that is either solely USB or one that is both parallel and USB. If you select one that only works on the parallel port, then if you ever buy any other peripherals such as an external zip drive or parallel port scanner; all of this equipment will have to be connected together just right or you won't be able to use it.

If all those cables and computers bug you buy a printer that has some kind of built in digital camera memory reader; SmartMedia, CompactFlash Cards or the Sony Mavica Memory Stick. The advantage of these printers is that they completely bypass the computer. Therefore your art work is strictly between you, your digital camera and the printer.

The next thing to worry about before buying a printer is printing speed. Forget all that nonsense that you see about 9 pages per minute. They really hype printing speed then toy a little with the statistics. Usually they are quoting the black and white only text speed or the crummiest quality of photographic image. Just figure that an photographic quality image, printed at 8" x 10" will take a couple of minutes to finish at 1440 dpi.

That leads me to my next to last point. Do your research. Check out the printers at the NEX then price them on the Internet. Compare shipping, availability of supplies, ease of use and then buy it.

My last point is about supplies. When I was in California in June I saw many less expensive replacement cartridges and media for color printers. Finally the NEX is carrying some. Tuesday, I noticed that they had the Amazon brand of color cartridge for my Epson. It was less than half price of the Epson model and less expensive than at Corte Ingles. Now that's cool.

That's all for now. Happy computing!

Although it won't officially be the end of summer for another three weeks, the end of August, the start of the school year, and Labor Day weekend, seem to mark it for many of us. Most of the summer vacationers have left or will be leaving soon so we won't have to deal with so much traffic, will have an easier time finding parking places and will be able to enjoy less crowded beaches! Lots to look forward to! Last week I had wanted to wish a good school year to all students, teachers and administrators, but had to take it out at the last minute. So here goes the wish, a week late, but still soon enough to be relevant.

Hopefully, those of you who don't have a trip planned for this three-day weekend will be able to take advantage of the time off to catch up on rest and to take in some of the sights and activities in the local area. Take a look at some of the recent Vistas for ideas and also, have a look at the accompanying ads in the cases where there are some,

for suggestions on places to go and things to do.

Also, this is one of the last chances to enjoy Aquasherry Park this year. The local water park will close for the season on September 10. To end the season with a bang, they have a special offer of a discount of 1,000 pesetas for 2 people. You can pick up your discount tickets at Carrefour (formerly Pryca), Crevillet or McDonald's.

As you know from the Coastline Calendar, the Air Force TOPS IN BLUE show is coming to the Rota Naval Station on Wednesday, September 6, at 7 p.m. The Air Force Services Agency puts together a troupe of 30 of the most talented active duty Air Force members each year who stage a family oriented variety show at almost 100 installations around the world. If you remember, they knocked our socks off about this time last year. The show changes its entire cast and choreography every year, and if last year is any indicator, you can expect the show to really give you a boost of positive energy with its selection of feel good numbers from rock n' roll, soul, rap, gospel, and the Latin beat. USPA&IRA is the primary sponsor of TOPS IN BLUE, and this is their 5th year of sponsorship. They have increased their support this year to the main tour and, like last year, are giving away a $200 gift certificate for the Base Exchange. Their substantial cash sponsorship helps offset regular tour expenses and expenses of the TOPS IN BLUE performance at both Moron Air Base and here at the Rota Naval Station. Representing USPA&IRA at the show will be Mr. Brent Canaday, who recently established an office just outside the Fuentebravia housing gate to service our Rota military community. As the largest independent provider of financial plans to the professional military family, USPA&IRA in its 42 year of existence, has shown thousands of military families the road to financial independence. Further, with USPA&IRA offices located near 440 military installations, they are committed to a lifetime of professional service for their clients. Brent is excited to be associated with such a wonderful group of Air Force personnel who bring such enjoyment to military families around the world. From an informational standpoint, he tells me that he will be hosting a no-cost financial planning seminar on October 5th. See the ad in this issue for the contact number.

Garcia upsets Tiger in 'Battle at Bighorn'

Sergio Garcia, 20-year-old Spanish golf rival, defeated the number one player in the world, Tiger Woods, in the "Battle at Bighorn" golf event Aug. 28 in Palm Desert, Calif.

The win in the made-for-television event won't show up on any official lists, but it was worth $1.1 million and a ton of pride for Garcia, nicknamed 'El Nino', who has struggled this year while Woods dominated the sport, winning three majors.

Woods flew across country earlier in the day and was fighting a cold or the flu after a streak of eight days that saw him win the PGA Championship and the NEC Invitational.

"I'm so cold. I'm freezing," Woods said to caddie Steve Williams as he waited to putt on the 17th hole on a warm night in the desert.

Garcia is ranked number 15 in the world golf standings.

Rota's Fightin' Admirals prepare for new season

Story submitted by
Admiral's Coaching Staff

When one coaches a DoDDS athletic program, one gets used to the fact that their roster will have a near total face-lift from year to year.

This is nearly true for the 2000 Fightin' Admirals football program. When one looks down the 2000 Fightin' Admiral's roster and sees such inexperience one might be led to believe that the Admirals football 2000 campaign will hit rough seas.

But, don't be fooled. Enthusiasm and desire ran high for the defending Division III North Conference and two-time Navy Europe champions during their three-a-day preseason training sessions held last week.

The tone of the players is not just to repeat as North Conference champions and to win their third straight Navy Europe title, but to win the European Division III championship as well.

Additionally, the schedule makers have shined on "TEAM ROTA" in 2000. If the Admirals can advance to the playoffs, all their games, including the European Championship game, will be played in Rota.

This year's team will have to do without the talents of All-Conference running back, Al Washington, and two-way All-star center and linebacker, Joe Johnston. Their talents will be missed but their achievements will be matched quite admirably by returning Conference All-stars Senior Kurt Lee and Sophomore Nick Council. Returning running back Kurt Lee will be running the Wishbone and Single Wing with newcomers Junior Keyshawn Coats, Sophomore Antwan Edmonds, Freshmen Lorenzo Cox and Juan Fairfield and the returning Senior John Gromer. The Admirals may be fielding the best running attack in Europe.

Their air attack features the arms of Junior Andy Nowacki, and Seniors Austin Oney and Joe Tolliver. This year's receiving corps features returning Conference All-star Sophomore Nick Council along with Antwan Edmonds, Sophomore Sam Wallace, Caleb Mothershed, Chester Chapman, Forrest Brown and Jason Smith.

The foundation of the Admiral's Championship run lies with their linemen. Returning from the 1999 season are Senior Aaron Kinghorn, Juniors Taureen Lynch, Brent Gaylord, Brent Bray, Josh Harrison and Cristo Heatherdale. Furthermore, last year's experience should assist Sophomores Terrell Peterson and William Turner. Late summer transfer from Iceland, Sophomore Chance Howland and newcomers Sophomore Patrick Behnke and Freshman Tim Ransom should solidify the Admiral's offensive and defensive lines.

Head Coach Don Kinghorn, his staff and players are looking forward to a very productive 2000 season and hope that "TEAM ROTA" will be out there game day providing our well-renowned "12th MAN" support.
